Pahokee promotes only female officer to sergeant

Tammy Jackson
Staff Reporter

The long hours of work and the sleepless nights have finally paid off for Pahokee's first and only female officer. Donna Salvatore, 33, was promoted to road patrol sergeant after she scored high in an aptitude test and the chief deemed it appropriate and deserving.

Sporting numerous law enforcement certificates, Sgt. Salvatore said she is proud of her accomplishments. "I accept the position and the challenge and I will work for the citizens of Pahokee and the community."

Presently the DARE officer for Pahokee Elementary School and the field training officer, Sgt. Salvatore said she now has an extra responsibility. She said she is responsible for overseeing two staff on her shift.

Sgt. Salvatore joined the police department as a dispatcher in 1978. She worked for the Belle Glade Police Department from 1982-85, and from 1985-87 she worked for the Jupiter Police Department where she did dispatch for all three departments. In 1987 she moved back to the Glades, and in 1989 she was promoted to road patrol officer. On Nov. 15, 1994, Sgt. Salvatore was promoted to road patrol sergeant.

Sgt. Donna Salvatore

Single with no children, Sgt. Salvatore is the daughter of Robert Hutton Salvatore. Her sister is Robbie Salvatore and her brother is Frank Salvatore.

Santa Claus is coming to town...Santa made a visit to Belle Glade last Saturday. He rode in the 7th Annual Christmas Parade down Main Street on a float with several local children. On Santa's lap is Alexis Hooker. Holding Aaron Sutterfield is Melanie Maurice.

Truck drivers want to park vehicles in city they live

Tammy Jackson
Staff Reporter

South Bay residents who earn a living in the trucking business are concerned about where they can park their vehicles. According to the truckers, if "we cannot park our trucks here, we might as well not live here."

Commissioners met with the truckers who live in their city Tuesday night in hopes of resolving the issue and making feasible amendments to the existing resolution which prohibits trucks from being parked in certain areas of the city. The truckers said they are concerned with theft and vandalism to their properties if they leave them at truck stops.

South Bay City Manager Lester Baird said he had spoken with U.S. Sugar and the company is anticipating building a parking facility for the truckers who reside in Clewiston in Hendry County.

He said those which will be permitted to use the parking are those persons who are affiliated with U.S. Sugar in some form or another.

Mayor Clarence Anthony assured the South Bay truckers he would speak with U.S. Sugar and see if they would be interested in constructing a similar facility in South Bay.

John Wilson addressed the commission and said he did not own a truck but he is concerned that a working man is not allowed to park the vehicle that he makes a living with on his own property.

Willie Hengerson said he owns dump trucks, and he wants to be able to park his trucks on his property. He said, "The first on my truck cost $600 a piece and I don't want them stolen and I don't want my battery missing. If it's fine with you, I'm gonna keep my trucks in my yard so my dogs and myself can watch them."

Mayor Anthony told those in attendance they will be permitted to park their vehicles only in specific locations but they would have to register that location with the police department.

He said there would be no mechanic work allowed on the vehicles while in those particular locations.

The commission advised Mr. Baird to review the existing ordinance and make provisions to it outlining the options that the truckers have.

Belle Glade's winning streak halted

Tammy Jackson
Staff Reporter

The luck of the Glades ran out last Friday evening when both Glades Day School and Glades Central High lost their fights for a state title. Glades Day School came up short with a 9-7 loss to Benjamin. The Raiders were defeated by Rockledge 16-13.

GDS and the Raiders both saw playoff action last year. They hoped to bring the titles home this year.

Coach Milton Watson, of the Raiders, said his squad will have a lot of rebuilding to do next year due to the loss of many seniors. He said he is optimistic the squad will be successful next year.

Both Belle Glade teams received large amounts of fan's support and the enthusiasm was evident in the Glades.

The Gators ended their season with a record of 11-1. The Raiders concluded their season with a record of 2-1.

The Gators are coached by Mandy Perez, while the Raiders are coached by Milton Watson.

Knifemaker Don Zaccagnino dies at his home in Pahokee

Funeral services will be today at 10:30 a.m. for Donald "Zack" Zaccagnino, 63, well-known locally for "Zack's Knives." He died of heart failure at his home Tuesday morning.

Mr. Zaccagnino was an accomplished knife-craftsman whose skilled work was known by many. In addition to his knife making, he taught biology at Pahokee High School from 1969 to 1980 and then taught machine shop at West Technical Education Center until he retired in 1985. He opened his business, "Zack's Knives" in 1969.

He suffered a stroke in 1991, which left him partially paralyzed, but he continued to craft one-of-a-kind knives and taught the skill to his son Don Jr.

"It was a blessing for him to go peacefully," said Don Jr. from his father's home Tuesday morning. "He has suffered for a long time."

The funeral services will be held at the First United Methodist Church in Pahokee.

Survivors include his wife, Louise Highton; sons, Don Jr. and Michael; daughters, Lois M. Crews and Tresha Ann Thomas; sisters, Therese and Marie Zaccagnino; and four grandchildren.

Aerial spraying of plants is being done on Lake Okeechobee

At the recommendation of the Lake Okeechobee Aquatic Plant Management Interagency Task Force, the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers through the South Florida Water Management District, will conduct an aerial treatment of floating plants on Lake Okeechobee this week.

Areas scheduled for treatment are the Kings Bar, Kremer Island, Halifax Bank, and Cody's Cove.

Approximately 500 acres of water lettuce and water hyacinths will be treated using the EPA approved herbicide Reward.

Water use restrictions on the use of Reward consists of no swimming in the treated areas for a period of 24 hours after treatment, and label restricts the use of treated water for drinking, animal consumption, spraying or irrigation within 14 days after treatment.

The aerial treatment is necessary in order to lower the floating plant populations in the lake to reduce the need for herbicide treatments during the upcoming fish spawning season, according to Ron Miedema, biologist for the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

All treatments will be limited to the interior sections and this will help to protect the native vegetation which surrounds these areas, he said.

Members of the Interagency Task Force consists of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, South Florida Water Management District, Florida Department of Environmental Protection, Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission, and the University of Florida's Center for Aquatic Plants.

Addition information may be obtained by contacting Mr. Miedema at 813-983-8101.

National Hurricane Center administrator retiring

By Mike Lyons

Root beer salesmen of the world are in mourning this week. One of their best customers is retiring.

After chasing hurricanes for 30 years, Dr. Robert Sheets announced the other day that he's quitting to spend more time with his family. "This business is difficult on family life," Dr. Sheets told me. "I intend to take an extended vacation with my wife and family."

If anyone deserves some down time it's Dr. Sheets. Dr. Sheets has spent most of his adult life in the study of hurricanes. "I've been going at 120 percent all my life so it's time to take some time off."

He's flown through the eye of a hurricane over 200 times, tracked and forecasted dozens of storms and, for the past seven years, was a clam, reassuring voice to coastal residents as a Hugo or an Andrew headed our way.

Each year he travels around the country giving dozens of seminars preaching the gospel of hurricane safety. And, don't forget, he's also an administrator. He's the man who's in charge of the National Hurricane Center and all of its employees.

Dr. Sheets will be one month shy of 58 when he steps down next April. Yet, he looks much younger. Folks who know him well doubt if he'll run off to the rocking chair.

"I obviously have a few offers and there will probably be more," Dr. Sheets said. "I may do things on a limited basis like consulting work but I really don't know."

Whatever he decides to do it won't be in Miami. He says that wouldn't be fair to his successor, always being second guessed. He'll take up residence in Lake Placid, where he owns a home and where his two grandchildren live.

Raised on a farm in Indiana (where his 86-year-old mother still lives), Dr. Sheets was always fascinated with the weather. He went to school at Ball State, undertook graduate work at the University of Oklahoma and picked up a doctorate at the University of Miami.

In 1965, he joined the Hurricane Center as a research flight scientist. That's a fancy name for a guy who flies into tropical storms and hurricanes. Dr. Sheets did it more than 200 times. In 1980, he was promoted to hurricane forecaster and, in 1987 was named director.

In the 40-year history of the hurricane center, there have only been four directors. It started with Gertie Dunn in 1954. He was followed by Robert Simpson in 1967. Neil Frank became director in 1974 and Dr. Sheets took over in 1987. The new director will be named in April and whoever it is will have some big shoes to fill.

Dr. Sheets is confident that his successor will do a great job. He'll no doubt pass along some advice to that person, including the secret of staying awake and alert when the hours get long.

What's Dr. Sheets' secret? "I don't drink coffee or soda when I'm up all night," Dr. Sheets said. "I prefer root beer."

Root beer companies are hoping his successor likes the beverage, too.

Mike Lyons is the weatherman for WPBF, Channel 25.

Postal changes

I am a resident of the City of South Bay, a little city of which I am very proud. I am very much excited about my post office staff because I think they are wonderful people and I have a lot of respect for them.

But, I have a complaint.

Apparently, they are trying to force the residents of South Bay into getting or accepting home mail delivery. I am not interested in that because, although I have good neighbors, there are some children in the community who are vandalizing and taking mail out of the mail boxes.

Because of this, for the past almost 23 years, I have maintained a box at the post office.

Now, because they are trying to force us to take mail delivery at our homes, they have been returning some very, very important letters addressed to me.

It has put me in a very difficult position. I'm calling Speak Out to see if these people at the post office could remedy this situation.

They have returned mail that was addressed to my home and they could have easily have put in my post office box. These post office people know who I am and could have easily remedied the situation by putting the mail in my post office box.

South Bay Postmaster Thomas Williams responds: "Under no circumstances are we trying to force anyone to get home delivery. Never. Anytime a piece of mail is addressed to the street address we have to send it back as 'no mail receptacle at this house.' It is the responsibility of the customer to see that their mail is addressed correctly."

Mr. Williams also noted he has received no complaints of vandalism of home mail boxes. If anyone has a problem, he encourages them to call him directly at 996-5390.

Where's the sports coverage?

I'm calling in reference to the two Belle Glade high school football teams that are in the play-offs.

They have received no coverage in your paper for the last two weeks.

When we don't want coverage, we usually buy the Palm Beach Post. That's no excuse for not having something about them. Thank you."

Nothing in paper about football

"I would like to know why in the last two weeks there has been no football information, and we have two teams in the Glades area in Belle Glade that are in the play-offs for the state championships?

There has been nothing in the paper about them."

Editor's response: Boy, have we heard from our readers! I could give you excuses, but I know you don't want to hear them. You're right. We've "dropped the ball," so to speak.

Pahokee High, Glades Day School and Glades Central had a great year. We salute them for a great season and for giving the Glades another reason to be proud of their home towns.

Flyer going around town

Something very interesting happened to me today, and I thought I would just share it with you readers.

On Avenue E and Fifth Street, Belle Glade, there are a couple of people distributing papers saying they have the answer to the crack situation and other problems affecting our community.

The paper they were distributing is called "The Final Call," dated Dec. 2.

I'm confused, and I've got to say these people just don't know what they're talking about. They're not even being reasonable.

Think you face a secure retirement? Think again - about health care

By Ron Pollack
Executive Director of Families USA Foundation

John O'Brien thought he'd finally have some relaxation and security in his golden years. He retired after spending 30 years of his life working for a major computer manufacturing company. His employer lured him into early retirement with a promise of generous benefits, including health insurance and a pension.

It sounded like a good deal: a guaranteed steady income and comprehensive medical coverage for him and his wife.

Suddenly, everything changed for John O'Brien. His former employer announced that it was no longer honoring its full commitment to its retirees.

"It would no longer pay retiree health insurance premiums effective immediately."

O'Brien's former employer is not the only corporation to have backed out on such promises to its retirees. Major automobile companies, farm equipment manufacturers, food producers and mining companies have also cut back or dropped health benefits for retirees.

With health insurance premiums skyrocketing out of control, the truth is that no retiree can have the peace of mind that health benefits won't be slashed or dropped altogether.

Those lured into early retirement have it especially tough. Most people wouldn't retire at an early age without the guarantee of comprehensive health coverage for life. But Mr. O'Brien and hundreds of thousands like him now face years without health protection.

Early retirees are not old enough to qualify for Medicare. So when your retiree benefits are cut out from under you, you face a grim choice.

You can keep your health insurance by picking up the hefty premiums just at a time when your income is reduced.

Or, you can try to go without insurance until Medicare kicks in, even though your risk of costly illness grows every month.

Because Congress failed to pass health reform, retiree health costs for Mr. O'Brien's company will likely be about $9,000 a year per retiree by 1996. That's $750 a month - more than the entire average monthly pension paid out by Mr. O'Brien's former employer.

What happened to John O'Brien can happen to almost any retiree. With health insurance premiums so high, corporations are looking for ways to cut their costs.

Two easy ways are to lay off older workers because they're more expensive to insure - and to slash retiree health benefits.

With health costs so high, workers have good reason to worry about their future health security. In the case of Mr. O'Brien's employer, 24,000 retirees were abandoned by the company.

They now must live each day knowing that they may be one illness away from complete financial devastation.

crying (nay, bellowing) newborn son. He wants to be fed, and he wants to be fed now! My wife and I waddle towards the bassinet to comfort our progeny. The time is midnight. After 15 minutes of feeding, he quiets down. We place him back in the bassinet, as Mr. Sandman rushes to ease our tortured bodies and souls...bliss, all is bliss...

SQAWWWW!! SQAWWWW!!!

The beasts from the dark have returned!!! I leap out of bed to protect my wife and am yet again, fiendishly confronted by my wailing baby. Our migraine enmeshed carcasses frantically rush to provide my screaming son the succor and solace, that only a mother's breast can provide. As the cacophony subsides, my spouse and I breathe dual sighs of relief. It is 2 a.m. and we eagerly anticipate a full four hours of sleep before we must rise to greet the day. Heaviness overtakes us...

SQAWWWW!! SQAWWWW!!!

The demons have returned at 4 a.m.!!! I rush to comfort (stifle) my healthy-lucent child. To my horror, I discover that neither breast milk, nor formula, nor sugar water will end his ceaseless wailing. I am perplexed and distressed, but my quick-witted and resourceful wife brilliantly concludes that the baby's diapers need changing. She, being a woman, and of naturally heartier constitution, readies herself for this eight task of Hercules. In the midst of her ardor, my wife cries out and I look towards the baby in amazement. I had no idea that Niagara could flow upwards! As my child urinates, all over our sheets, we vainly attempt to contain the raging torrents. Eventually, we clean and bed our son, but are too tired to change our own sheets. Paralysis overtakes me as I mortify within the urine-soaked bed clothes...

SQAWWWW!! SQAWWWW!!!

It is 6 a.m. and my human-powered alarm clock blares me awake with his indelicate shrill. Haggard, I crawl out of bed, less rested than before I attempted to sleep the night before.

After my son is fed, he becomes content and quiet. I look down upon his angelic visage. I appreciate my wife more and more every day. I look and wonder what my son will be like two days, two weeks, two months, and 20 years from now. His expressions, his gurgling, his arm-waving; all fascinating to me.

Fleeting a smile crosses his face - yes, a smile!

Although others have told me that for newborns, a smile is only an indication of gas, I dispute that mundane presumption. I am convinced that my son is smiling and happy. I will always love and adore him as long as I live.

I am, indeed, a very fortunate man.

"most Muslim program" and what the "Muslims" want.

Under number four, it says "we want our people in America whose parents or grandparents were descendants of slaves to be allowed to establish a separate state or territory of their own."

"We believe that our former slave masters are obligated to provide such land and that the area must be fertile and mineral rich. We believe that our former slave masters are obligated to maintain and supply our needs in this separate territory for the next 20 to 25 years until we are able to participate and supply our own needs."

They then go on and say different things. To each their own. If they believe a God, that's fine. If they believe in Allah, that's fine. If they don't believe in any God, that's fine. But I've got to ask these people to get real!

If anybody else would like to comment on this, please do so.

When will the street be fixed?

While I realize it's not a high-priority item, when is Northwest Avenue H, immediately west of the Glades Central Annex, going to be fixed?

We know the one lane was completely broken down by heavily-loaded dump trucks used in the construction of the new elementary school. However, the street, being now closed, is quite an inconvenience to traffic between the high school campus and the present elementary.

Any information?

Editor's note: We spoke with Belle Glade City Manager Lomax Harrelle. He said he is aware of the problem and the city did barricade the road.

He is working with the contractor to get reimbursement for damage to the street and it will be repaired, but he was unable to give a time frame for the work.

Chamber sponsoring decorating contest

The Belle Glade Chamber of Commerce extends an invitation to all residents and businesses in the city to participate in their annual Home and Business Decorating Contest.

First, second and third place certificates will be presented in each of the three categories.

To enter, call the chamber at 996-2745, by noon on Dec. 16. Please note, only those who call and/or come to the chamber officer to enter will be judged.

Community meeting

A meeting is planned by those concerned about the fact that no football stadium has been budgeted for the new Glades Central High School. The meeting is scheduled for Wednesday, Dec. 14, at 7 p.m. at St. Paul Church on Avenue A, Belle Glade.

Concerned community members are urged to attend and bring a friend.

Auditions for comedy

Auditions for the comedy, "Love, Sex and the I.R.S.," are scheduled for Sunday, Dec. 11, at 2 p.m. at the Senior Citizens Building next to John B. Boy Auditorium in Clewiston.

For those unable to attend the audition, there will be a second opportunity on Dec. 13, at 7:30 p.m. at the same location.

Auditions are open to any and all adults in the area.

Roles include two young women in their 90's, a young man forced to disguise himself as a woman, an evil landlord, an uncompromising I.R.S. auditor, a forgetful justice of the peace, a wicked and interfering mother, and a troubled young male suitor.

Anyone having questions concerning the auditions may contact its director, Kaye Lassagna, at 813-983-5457. Anyone wishing to help back stage or become involved for the first time with the A.C.T. organization is invited to either call Mrs. Lassagna or attend one of the auditions.

Glades Day School's Gator Glee Club will present a Christmas concert at 7:30 p.m. next Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, Dec. 13-14, at the Dolly Hand Cultural Arts Center.

Admission to the performances this year will be $1 per person. Tickets are available from director Janis Fiehs and the Glee Club members beginning Thursday, Dec. 8.

The program will feature a candlelight ceremony of carols, the handbell choir, and a performance by the Junior Glee Club, before the Gator Glee Club presents "The Best Time of the Year," music and memories arranged by Keith Christopher and John Jacobson.

The elementary is also presenting two Christmas programs this year - one on Dec. 12 and the other on Dec. 15. The performance on Dec. 12 will feature students in pre-k through second grades and will be held at 7 p.m. in the cafeteria on the main campus. The Dec. 15 program will feature students in grades third through sixth. It is scheduled to begin at 7 p.m. in the cafeteria.

Congratulations goes to the Gator Marching Band, who placed second in Belle Glade's Christmas Parade Saturday morning. Small, but strong, these students deserve a standing ovation for hanging in there through the marching season and supporting the Gator football team.

Speaking of football, our Gator boys also deserve a hand for a great season. Unfortunately, it ended with a 9-7 loss to Benjamin in the sectional playoffs. Tough break, guys, but we're still proud of all you've accomplished!

GDS congratulates seniors Mark Collier and Jeff Goodal, who were selected to play in the OUTBACK STEAKHOUSE HIGH SCHOOL ALL-STAR football game this Friday at 7:30 p.m. at John I. Leonard High School. They were two of 80 players selected from Palm Beach, Martin, Hendry, Okeechobee and St. Lucie counties. Tickets to the game are $5 and can be purchased at the gate.

Gator fans can now turn their heads toward basketball as the girl's season starts in earnest. The varsity girls, sporting a 1-2 record, will host Labelle and Jupiter Christian this Thursday and Friday, Dec. 8-9. The JV girls will also be playing these two teams.

The junior high boys will play at Moore Haven on Dec. 8 and Clewiston Middle Dec. 12, while the JV boys open their season with a home game against Trinity Christian Dec. 12.

Sheriff's department distributes baskets to needy

It should be noted that the Thanksgiving has come and gone again. The donations and contributions were many again this year. The Palm Beach County Sheriff's Department District V Substation distributed approximately 200 turkeys and over 1,200 pounds of food to the needy families in the Glades area.

The sheriff's department wishes to thank the many generous contributors who helped to make the project successful. Members of the PBSO said, "There are times when life is not so fortunate for others, especially when significant emotional events come at unexpected times." They said there are earthquakes and other disasters in other parts of the world, and we have experienced some very bad weather in South Florida. They said Floridians are just getting over the traumatic experience that was left by Hurricane Andrew, and during the planting season this year, residents have experienced one of the wettest Septembers on record. Records state some of the farmers had to replant their crops, and some of them reduced acreage because of the rain.

The Palm Beach County Sheriff's Department delivered Thanksgiving baskets to Belle Glades residents recently. Due to the recent large amounts of rain, many residents have been unable to work, thus making it almost impossible to provide a good meal for Thanksgiving.

Another untimely event came when Tropical Storm Gordon battered South Florida last month and dumped 10 or more inches of rainfall late in the year, but early in the harvest season.

The storm put many people out of work for a period of one to two weeks. According to Det. Sgt. John Russ of the PBSO, "I talked to some (people) who advised me that unemployment had stopped and due to the rain, they had no paycheck coming in Thanksgiving week."

He said there were several emotional episodes where he was told had they not been donated a turkey, the family probably wouldn't have a turkey.

Sgt. Russ said, "It is great that we can be unselfish and help others who are less fortunate than we are."

Patricia Escalon marries Francisco Zamora

Patricia Escalon, of Brownsville, Texas, and Francisco Zamora, of Clewiston, were united in marriage Oct. 29, 1994, at double-ring ceremony in Matamoros, Mexico. Tony Torres conducted the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mario and Maria Escalon of Brownsville, Texas.

The groom is the son of Angel Emilio and Virgen Zamora of Clewiston.

The bride wore a long, white long-sleeved wedding gown with a long, white train. The gown was cut low in the front, and contained white pearls and a big bow in the back. She carried a bouquet consisting of white and peach roses. The album, video case, goblets and pen were combined with peach color.

The bride and her parents were taken by white limousine to Matamoros, Mexico.

A reception was held at Garcia Salon Internacional in Matamoros, Mexico. Family members and relatives from Donna, Weslaco and Mexico attended.

Decorations at the reception consisted of centerpiece white roses. An arrangement of two white roses on every guest table with white candles adorned the room.

The cake was decorated with flowers and a fountain.
